Ukraine is a country in Eastern Europe. It is the second-largest area in Europe after Russia, which it borders to the east and north-east. Ukraine also shares borders with Belarus to the north; Poland, Slovakia, and Hungary to the west; Romania and Moldova to the south; and has a coastline along the Sea of Azov and the Black Sea.

It spans an area of 603,628 miles, with a population of 41.2 million, and so, has the eighth most people of all the countries in Europe.

The nation's capital and largest city is Kyiv.

The territory of modern Ukraine has been inhabited since 32,000 BC. During the Middle Ages, the area was a key centre of East Slavic culture.

Following its independence, Ukraine formed a republic under a semi-presidential system, with separation of powers into legislative, executive branches.

War in Ukraine

Russia has invaded Ukraine. An invasion is when one country sends their army into another country to attack them. This is making people around the world very worried. Over 3.3 million refugees have left Ukraine (as of 18 March 2022), while an estimated 6.48 million people have been displaced within the country (as of 16 March 2022). Many people have been killed. You can read about this war in United Response's Easy Read edition about the war in Ukraine. <https://tinyurl.com/URWARUKRAINE>

Pysanky Ukrainian Easter Egg - By L. Perkins Peter Crum

Ukrainian Easter eggs called Pysanky, are a form of folk art dating back to the 1st century A.D.

The word "Pysanky" derives from the Ukrainian word "Pysaty" which means "to write" or "to inscribe". Looking at a pysanka you'll see why. The eggs are covered with hand-drawn designs.

Some are religious motifs and some are patterns from nature that range from simple to very detailed.

The art of making Pysanky is traditionally handed down from generation to generation as women and girls gather to decorate dozens of eggs before Easter.

Tribute to my mum - By Tracy Roberts

My mum, Alicia Roberts, sadly passed away on 7th February, she was an amazing Mum and supported me in everything that I do.

She loved cruising and had just been on a lovely five week cruise in the Caribbean and unfortunately died of a heart attack in Southampton on the day she came home.

She loved cruising and her favourite places to go were Venice & the Caribbean.

She is and will be sadly missed by my Dad, brothers and sister and all of the family.

Wishing you a lovely Easter and happy colouring!

Giant Cookie - By Peter Crum

Ingredients

- 200g butter at room temperature, plus extra for the pan
- 250g light brown sugar
- 2 egg yolks
- ½ tsp vanilla extract
- 275g plain flour
- 1 tsp baking powder
- 150g chocolate chips
- 100g other cookie fillings, such as pretzels, chopped nuts, pieces of fudge or toffee, marshmallows

Vanilla ice cream, to serve (optional)

Method

STEP 1

Heat oven to 180C/160C fan/gas 4. Tip the butter and sugar into a large mixing bowl, beat until combined, then stir in the yolks and vanilla. Tip in the flour, baking powder, chocolate chips, a pinch of sea salt and any other fillings you want to add. Mix until a crumbly dough forms.

STEP 2

Lightly butter a 25cm ovenproof frying pan. Spoon in and flatten the cookie mixture. For a gooey dessert, bake for 20 mins, leave to rest for 5 mins, then scoop straight from the pan and serve with ice cream, if you like. For a firmer cookie you can cut, bake for 30 mins, then leave to cool completely before cutting into wedges.

Poland - By L Perkins

Poland is located at the heart of the European continent. The country is a meeting place not only for cultures and ideas, but also for conflict and confrontation. Poland's borders have changed many times over the centuries. Its present borders were set after World War II ended in 1945. Poland has seven neighbours: Germany, Slovakia, the Czech Republic, Lithuania, Belarus, Ukraine, and Russian Kaliningrad. Poland has a variety of striking landscapes, from the sandy beaches of the Baltic Sea coast in the north and the rolling central lowlands to the snowcapped peaks of the Carpathian and Sudeten Mountains in the south. Poland has more than 1,300 lakes throughout the country.

Review of Belfast - By Tracy Roberts and Peter Crum

We went to see the film Belfast at the courtyard.

The film of Belfast is about the life of a working class northern Irish protestant from the perspective of their nine-year-old son Buddy during the troubles in Belfast.

Tracy: I thought the film was very powerful and moving at the same time, I like how the film started off in colour then turned to black and white and loved that we saw the film through the eyes of the character Buddy.

I really enjoyed this film.

Peter: I thought that the film Belfast was really good, and I found it very interesting and Judi Dench was really funny in places as the Grandma

I highly recommend this film.

Fit 4 Tap - By Tracy Roberts

I went to Courtyard Theatre to take part in a dance class. I decided to take part in a fit4tap class ran by Lisa Fraser.

This class is suitable for beginners or refresher tappers alike. Low impact and easy steps which can be progressed when ready. She went through the steps a few times and then put it to music. I really enjoy this because it been a while since I have done some tap dancing.

Lisa Fraser and I have been friends for years, she is amazing and she made her class accessible. This class runs on a Wednesday morning from 10am to 10.45am.

La Voix - Tracy Roberts.

Sarah and I went to the Courtyard Theatre to see La Voix.

Packed by the case load with side splitting comedy, huge vocals, interesting diva impressions and buckets of energy, La Voix and her incredible musicians provide an unforgettable evening full of sparkling wit, show stopping tunes and even more gorgeous dresses.

My favourite part of the show was when La Voix sang “Mein Herr” with a low chair which was funny!

After the show Sarah and I met La Voix, she is a really lovely person, she is funny in real life as she is on stage.

My weekend visits - By Laura Joliffe

ON Saturday I went to Hereford horse races it was very good and didn't finish till 6 0 Clock. We could sit in the car and watch, as it was cold.

I went to a band on Sunday evening at 8.00pm the band was very good and it was not too packed in the Barrels. It was a man playing keyboard it was all different kinds of music.

Only Fools and Horses the musical -

By Peter Crum

At the end of February I went with my friend Cliff, mum and dad to London to see Only Fools and Horses the musical.

We went by train from Worcester Shrub Hill to Paddington station. It only took 2 hours so we got into London in time for lunch.

Our hotel was called The Royal Horse Guards. It was a really nice hotel and we had lovely rooms.

We went to the Haymarket theatre to see the afternoon performance of Only Fools and Horses. It was packed and people were queuing up to get in. We had seats in the royal circle.

The music was fantastic, the actors were brilliant - just like the dvd with the same accent and looks. And the yellow three wheeled van featured too.

There were lots of jokes and funny things happening and everyone was laughing and clapping all the way through.

In the evening we went to a bistro pub and I had a posh fish pie which was really nice, followed by sticky toffee pudding.

In the morning the breakfast was superb. It was a buffet so we could help ourselves to what we wanted and as much as we wanted and there was loads to chose from.

Poetry corner

thefridaypoem.com

Poets have always responded to war by writing poetry . This is a poem on this site about the war in Ukraine it is by Becky Cullen.

Today I am looking at the ticker tape of trauma
 we used to call the news and it makes me think of Russian films like that sequence
 when a pram is falling down the steps and I think about the people working in TV
 on the only opposition channel playing Swan Lake as their final broadcast which in the last days of the Cold War was their first and the people working on the radio
 on the only opposition channel
 huddling in the corridor before heading home alone and the people in the string section of the Siberian State Symphony Orchestra whose tour is cancelled and how the world is poorer without their second violins and the people leaving fearing martial law and the teachers I met from Moscow State University whether Oleg's son is safe
 if Irina who presented me with a shawl embroidered with roses like a mouth of petals has lost her singing voice

I don't know the ways of the war
 so if you will tell me please, in the name of keeping Peace
 how many mothers will have to weep, how many wives
 will hold their husbands wrapped in a flag
 in a cold coffin

WAR

War. A terrible thing.
 A continuous rally of endless battles.
 Gunfights and air raids tanks and bloodshed.
 All in one endless nightmare.

Two sides run towards each other.
 Armed with weapons so fierce.
 But when they think they are running to victory,
 they are really running to their death.

The History of the Loch Ness Monster - By Adrian Phipps

The Loch Ness Monster is a creature in Scottish folklore that is said to inhabit Loch Ness in the Scottish Highlands. It is often described as large, long-necked, and with one or more humps protruding from the water. Popular interest and belief in the creature has varied since it was brought to worldwide attention in 1933. Evidence of its existence is anecdotal (people telling or hearing tales of sightings), with a number of disputed photographs.

Origin Of the Name

In August 1933, the "Courier" published the account of George Spicer's alleged sightings. Public interest skyrocketed, with countless letters being sent in detailing sightings describing a "monster fish," "sea serpent", or "dragon", with the final name ultimately settling on "Loch Ness Monster".

Sightings

The earliest report of a monster in the area of Loch Ness appears in the "Life of St. Columba" by Adomnain, written in the sixth century AD. According to Adomnain, Irish Monk St. Columba was staying in the land of the Picts with his companions when he encountered local residents burying a man by the River Ness. They explained that the man was swimming in the river when he was attacked by a "water beast" that dragged him underwater despite their attempts to rescue him by boat. The beast approached him, but Columba made the sign of the cross and said "Go back at once".

So, is there really a Loch Ness Monster? I, myself, would really like to go to Loch Ness. But, if I do, and I wanted to go for a swim in the loch, would I? Well, that is something I will not be sure of until I do go there.

April Showers - By L Perkins

"March winds and April showers bring forth May flowers".

We often think of this old piece of weather saying during the spring months in the UK.

But is there any truth in it?

What are showers?

Showers are short bursts of rain coming every now and then from individual Cumulus clouds. Cumulus clouds are flat at the bottom and fluffy in appearance.

When the clouds have enough energy to grow big enough, they become cumulonimbus.

Which are towered up clouds, which give us thunderstorms.

Showers and thunderstorms can result in a very heavy downpour in one place, whilst remaining totally dry just down the road.

At this time of year in the UK we are in a changing period between the long, cold (well sometimes) Winter months and the warmer Spring and Summer.

The Jet stream (a fast air current above the earth) starts to move northwards, which can bring the first signs of warmth, but also tends to make our weather more unsettled due to low pressure systems being driven towards the UK, and so we get rain, showers and strong wind.

What causes Showers?

But it isn't just low pressure that results in showers, they can also develop due to daytime heating.

At this time of year, the sea temperature around the UK is at its lowest, meanwhile the heating we receive from the sun is increasing as the sun rises higher in the sky and daylight hours increase.

This results in warm land temperatures compared with sea temperatures, and so shower clouds develop more often over the warmer land.

So, there is some truth to the weather saying that April Showers bring may flowers as April does tend to be a showery month, and the warmth of May soon follows.
